DETAILED ACTION

1. Amendment filed on has been received.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Parker.

Parker shows a method of vehicle brake assemble comprising applying a liquid binder and a coating material to a brake show that is them applied to a brake rotor to fill in surface irregularities. The claimed invention differs from Parker only in the type of rotor. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have utilized a drum brake rotor (and the associated pad) with the method shown by Parker as a mere substitute of known equivalents for a variety of reasons dependent on the type of vehicle using the brake.

Re-claims 2 and 3, Parker shows that the coating is liquefied during contact with the rotor and thus it is applied first as broadly recited. The coating a liquid binder are mixed and applied to the pad and thus satisfy the broad limitations recited in claim 3 as well.

Re-claim 4, Parker shows rolling.

Re-claims 6-10, the particular materials and composition would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art as mere choices of material and feature to optimize performance.

Re-claims 11-13, the extent of the coating would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art as a mere choice dependent on the type of braking surface.

Re-claims 14 and 15, Parker shows a shoe and a rotor.

Re-claims 16-22, note the above discussion of claims 1-15.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 6/9/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicants argue that Parker teaches away from using the method with "new" brake components. Examiner disagrees. Parker states "It should be noted that the coated brake pads of the present invention are intended primarily for use with used rotors; as the new rotors already have a smooth friction surface.". Parker doesn't eliminate the use of the process with new rotors but merely says it is intended for use with used rotors because used rotors have pits and grooves from their use. Parker is defining "new" as having a smooth friction surface. The applicants "new" rotor does not have a smooth surface but has pits and grooves. In terms of the process of Parker, the applicants' rotor would be structurally similar, if not identical, to the rotors that Parker is intending to which the process is to be applied.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
